

Orinoco Cattle

BEEF

We take pride in our herd of beef cattle. Our cows are selected to produce the best steers to thrive in our climate, conditions, and topography, alongside our 100% grass-fed practices. We focus on soil fertility & biological activity, allowing for more annual grazing weeks, particularly in early spring and late fall.

Healthy soils are integral to a climate-resilient ecosystem. To support this belief, we conduct soil fertility testing & mapping annually. This helps us make informed decisions about where, when & how much to feed in the fields, the intensity of our grazing rotation, & optimal number of animals per field each season.
